APPRECIATION

I would like to dedicate The Woodmans of Rhode Island to the memory of Lovina May Woodman Van Vleet, who first inspired me to start research on the Woodman genealogy over twenty years ago.

I also wish to thank my husband, Wesley G. Woodman, who obviously was the main reason I became interested in the Woodman family and who was so cooperative and helpful in locating the family homesteads and old family cemeteries in Little Compton, Rhode Island and Madison, New York, and for taking me to various historical societies, libraries and court houses in those areas so I could research the original records.

I have enjoyed researching and compiling the information and am indebted to the generous assistance of many interested correspondents and members of all branches of the Woodman family.

Compiling a family genealogy is an endless project. Aside from the information about the older generations, we have the newlyweds and the newborns to consider and place. I have tried to be as complete and accurate as possible, and this could not have been done without the generous cooperation of "cousins" and ancestors' records. I have compiled, and am publishing, what I have completed over the past twenty years, and where some branches of the family are not as complete as others, it is because of lack of information.

My main purpose in publishing The Woodmans of Rhode Island is to leave a permanent record for our children, Wesley G. Woodman, Jr., and Nanci Woodman Perlstein, and for all the Woodmans of the living and future generations, so they will learn more about their ancestors and take pride in being a member of this Woodman line, which is herein traced back to John Woodman of Rhode Island, who came to this country about 1665 from England, a young, single man about the age of twenty eight.

Woodman

One of the most ancient and best known of the several Coats of Arms of the Woodman family is described in heraldic terms as follows: (Burke, Encyclopedia of Heraldry, 1844).

Arms - "Argent, a chevron sable between three escallops gules."
Crest - "A buck's head erased proper."

THE NAME AND FAMILY OF WOODMAN IN ENGLAND

The name of WOODMAN is generally believed to have been derived from the occupation of its first bearers as woodcutters or from their residence in a wood, but some writers assert that it is derived from the ancient Saxon baptismal name of Wodemund and was first adopted as a patronymic by the sons of one so called. It appears on early English and American records in the various forms of Wodemund, Wodeman, Wudeman, Wodemun, Wudman, Wodman, Woddman, Woodmon, Woodeman, Woodman, and others, of which the last is the spelling most generally used in America today.

Families of this name were resident at early dates in the English counties of Surrey, Oxford, Kent, Northumberland, Lincoln, Howden and Wilts, as well as in the city and vicinity of London. They appear to have been, for the most part, of the British landed gentry and yeomanry.

Among the earliest records of the name in England are those of Thomas Wodemund or Wodeman, of Oxfordshire, in the year 1273; those of William Wudeman, of Kent County, about the same time; those of Eudo Wudeman, of Lincolnshire, at a slightly later date; and those of Johannes or John Wodman, of Howdenshire, in 1379.

The Surrey County line of the family was represented in the early sixteenth century by one John Woodman, who resided in the village of Colley and was the father of three children, Richard, John and Joane. Of these, the first married Julianna Huntley and had issue by her of William, Richard, Alexander and Mabell, of whom the first married Anna Byhurst and was the father by her of William, Anne, Richard, John, George, Margery and Elizabeth. Of the last-mentioned brothers, the eldest son, William Woodman, married Winifred, daughter of Charles Balam, of County Norfolk, in the early seventeenth century and the father by her of William, Richard, Charles and Mary. George, the youngest son of William and Anne, is said to have made his home in County Sussex and to have married Anna Streete, of Shropshire, but his records are not complete.

Other early, though unconnected, records of the name in England are those of Robert Woddman, of London, who was the father in the early seventeenth century of, among other children, a daughter named Mary; and those of Thomas Woodman, of London, who was married in 1659 to Jane Humphrey.

WOODMANS IN ENGLAND

Although the connecting links between these lines and the first emigrants of the name to America have not been found, it is certain that most, if not all, of the Woodmans of America are of English ancestry. The above information was compiled by The Media Research Bureau in Washington, D.C. for Lee Wilcox Woodman in 1926.

In Shakespeare's time "woodman" signified a hunter. The forests of England were, in the days of long ago, counted amongst her most glorious possessions. Kings always keen for war or sport were quick to seize enormous tracts of forest land for the preservation of game. These lands were put in charge of men skilled in forestry, and brave enough to cope with the outlaws who flourished in the royal forests. Robin Hood is the most famous of these outlaws, though we have the names of many who lurked in the vast depths of the royal domains, desperate men ready to sell life dearly. The head forester was a man holding a position of great trust. It is well known that the kings of England, for the most part, gave the care of their pleasures to the men they most esteemed, not wishing to waste their skill and wit upon the drab business of State administration.

The origin of the surname and its signification is variously described by students of our English patronymics, and may have been first given to one whose abode was in a forest, and hence classed with names derived from localities; or applied to one who cut and carried wood to the market place, and thus is included among surnames derived from vocations.

From the Dictionary of American Family Names by Elsdon C. Smith, Harper & Brothers, Publishers, New York 1956, I found the following:

"Woodman. (English) One who cut and sold timber in a wood or forest; one who hunted game in a wood; one who dyed with woad; descendant of Wudeman (woodman)."

And from "The Origin of English Surnames" by P. H. Reavey, Barnes & Noble, Inc., New York 1967, the following:

Names derived from weavers, fullers and dyers:

"The most common dye used appears to have been "woad", a blue dyestuff obtained from the plant, in great demand in the Middle Ages, from which we have WADER, WADEMAN and WODEMAN. The spelling of WODEMAN is indistinguishable from Wodeman (woodman)."

The Woodman family was early resident in County Surrey. Woodmanthorne and the parish Woodmansterne were places named most probably from this family. Woodmansterne adjoins Banstead parish, which parish was famous in history. Many strange and heroic tales hang around the old houses in this part of England. The Banstead Downs, now famous to all lovers of the "Derby" were once the haunts of footpads. The Surrey sentry were noted for their wealth, the castles and mansions being reckoned equal to the stately palaces in the "Dukeries". In the records of Banstead, in 1377, we find mention of Adam and of John, "The Woodman". From that time on, we find frequent records of this ancient family.

I have examined microfilms of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints and have corresponded with the Surrey County Council, which has revealed many Woodmans named in parish registers of Banstead, Buckland, Horley and Horne, which recorded baptisms, marriages and burials. The names and dates are clear, but it is difficult to show the family relationships in most cases unless it specifically states "son of" or "daughter of". The following seems to be the strongest possibility as to any connection with our John Woodman that I have found to date. In examining the parish registers for Buckland, Surrey, I found the following, and because of the repetition of the given names, I feel there is a strong possibility that this may be "our" John Woodman's family. John and Robert are the names most frequently used, and you will note that our John Woodman's firstborn son was named Robert, and his second son was John, which apparently followed the custom of this family.

According to the parish registers of Buckland, Surrey, England, Robert Woodman of Colley, Surrey, had four sons; namely, Robert Woodman, bapt. Aug 10, 1616, John Woodman, bapt. May 23, 1619 (probably died young), Richard Woodman, bapt. Feb 17, 1621 and John Woodman, bapt. March 7, 1623.

Robert Woodman (bapt. Aug 10, 1616), son of Robert, married Frances Brooker Sept 26, 1637 and there were two sons born of this marriage; namely, John Woodman, bapt. Feb 3, 1638 and Robert Woodman, bapt. Jan 17, 1640. It is this John Woodman who could be the same John Woodman who came to America and settled in Newport, Rhode Island about 1663.

The only question I have with this possibility is the marriage date of Robert Woodman and Frances Brooker. John Woodman's gravestone in Little Compton states that he died April 24, 1713, in his 77th year, which means he was born in 1637, and John and Frances were married Sept 26, 1637. His baptismal date is Feb 3, 1638 and apparently he was over a year old when baptized, because under the Julian calendar, the new year began with March 25th, instead of January 1st.

We should take into account that in the l600's, the Julian calendar was in use, which meant that the New Year began with March 25th. The Gregorian calendar in use today was not adopted by Britain and most of the colonies until 1752.

This would mean that John Woodman's baptismal date of February 3, 1638 was actually about sixteen and a half months after the date of the marriage of his parents, Robert and Frances, who were married Sept 26, 1637, and we know that John Woodman was born in 1637. I know this is confusing, but until there is proof, I feel that there is a strong possibility that this John Woodman is "our" John Woodman who migrated to this country about 1663 when he was about 26 or 27 years old.

JOHN WOODMAN OF NEWPORT AND LITTLE COMPTON, RHODE ISLAND

John Woodman, a young man in his twenties, arrived in Newport, Rhode Island about 1663. The first proof of his presence in Newport is found in the fact that he witnessed two deeds of Robert Williams to a Daniel Abbott. Both deeds were dated October 1, 1665 for lands in Portsmouth, R.I. It is interesting to note that Robert Williams was a brother of Roger Williams, who founded Rhode Island. John Woodman was about 28 years old at that time.

It has not been established how John Woodman came to Newport. The only possibility that I have found is a reference to a John Woodman in "A Record of the First Settlers in the Colonies of North America 1654-1685, Including the Names with Places of Origin of More Than 10,000 Servants to Foreign Plantations Who Sailed from the Port of Bristol to Virginia, Maryland and Other Parts of the Atlantic Coast, and also to the West Indies from 1685", by the Corporation of the City of Bristol, England. On Page 154 it is stated that John Woodman sailed from Bristol to Jamaica between 1663 and 1679, but no specific date is given and no age. We can only assume that this was our John Woodman, because no record has been found of his passage from Jamaica to Newport. However, many ships made stops along the way and it is quite likely that the ship that John Woodman sailed on continued on to Newport and perhaps made further stops along the way. The islands of the British West Indies were known as Little England, with Barbados actually being called the l4th colony.

The emigrants who sailed from Bristol were all sorts and conditions of men (criminals and political prisoners). Penruddock's rebellion of the Scottish rising furnished their share of emigrants. But the vast majority were respectable and industrious men and women who bound themselves for a fixed term of service with the certainty of becoming freeholders at the end of their bond, Many prospered and all found in the new land a greater measure of liberty than they had enjoyed in England. The "foreign servants" were usually indentured for 4 or 5 years.

It should be mentioned here that one of the first of the name, WOODMAN, to come to America was an Edward Woodman who settled in Newbury, Massachusetts in 1635. He was from Corsham, Wiltshire, England and was the progenitor of the Woodman line which originally settled in Massachusetts and later migrated to New Hampshire and Maine. Three genealogies have been published tracing this line, but I have not been able to establish any connection between this Woodman line and "our" John Woodman. Based on my research, I am inclined to believe that our John Woodman came from Buckland, Surrey, England.

I also feel it is important to include a bit about Hannah Timberlake's ancestry here, since she was the wife and mother of all of the eight children of our progenitor, John Woodman of Newport and Little Compton, Rhode Island. It also shows that both John Woodman and Hannah Timberlake were of English heritage.

As previously stated, Hannah Timberlake was the daughter of Henry and Mary Timberlake and was born in Newport, R.I. about 1656. She married John Woodman about 1676 at the age of about 20. John was about 39, almost twice her age. They both died in 1713, first John on April 24, 1713 and then Hannah on May 3, 1713, nine days later, she at age 57 and he aged 76.

Hannah's father, Henry Timberlake, was born about 1626 in Tichfield, Hampshire, England, the youngest son of Henry and Margaret (-)Timberlake. Henry, (Sr.) was born 1594 and resided in Tichfield.

Henry (Jr.) is mentioned in his father's will as follows:

"Henry Timberlake, of Chillinge in the parish of Tichfield in the County of Southampton, dated 10 July 1625, proved 13 May, 1626. To Thomas Timberlake, my eldest son, all such lands or parts of lands as I now am, or at any time hereafter, during my life, shall be, seized in the Somer Islands or Virginia in the parts beyond the seas. To said son, Thomas, a parcel of land with a tenement thereon erected called Hobbs or Madames Land, lying in Barking, Essex. To my youngest son, Henry Timberlake, a cottage and parcel of land in Prickellwell, Essex, and two cottages in Lambeth Marsh near London. .." There were also further bequests to daughter, Sara, the wife of Timothy Blier of Tichfield and daughter, Hester (Mitchell), now the wife of Thomas Williams and Thomas Mitchell and Judith Mitchell, two of her children living with her, etc.

It appears that Henry Timberlake (Jr.) migrated to Newport, R.I. as a young man, probably about 1650 and married Mary _____. There were six children born of this marriage as follows:

1. Elizabeth, born about 1654 Newport, m. John Coggeshall. on Dec 24, 1670.
2. Hannah, born about 1656 Newport. m. John Woodman abt 1676. Died May 3, 1713.
3. William, born about 1658 Newport. m. Mary_____. Died 1678.

4. Henry, born about 1660 Newport. m. Sarah_____ . Died 1687.

5. Joseph, born about 1662 Newport. m. Mary Earle (Wid.) 1683.

6. John, born about 1664 Newport. Died 1706.

We learned from the "Genealogical Dictionary of Rhode Island" by John Osborne Austin that John Woodman was a cordwainer, (a worker in cordovan leather, a shoemaker), a trade which he had probably learned in England.

In 1675 John Woodman was declared a Freeman in the Proceedings of the General Assembly of the Collony of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, held at Newport the 4th of May, 1675. This meant he could now enjoy the privilege to vote and hold public office.

About 1676 John Woodman married Hannah Timberlake, of Newport. She was born in 1656, daughter of Henry and Mary Timberlake. On January 7, 1691, John Woodman and John Irish bought a piece of salt marsh in Little Compton, Rhode Island for 34 pounds. Eventually he owned three of the great lots (one hundred acres per lot) numbers 7, 8 and 9. The town records of Little Compton state that the Inventory of the Estate of John Woodman, dated June 15, 1713, was as follows:

> "Total of the property, 1,905 pounds, 10 shillings and 2 pence. He had a great deal of land and was once the man who had more than the average of money in town."

The above-mentioned land was located on the East side of the "Great Highway" in Little Compton (still the main road), south of Windmill Hill and is the site of the two Woodman family cemeteries, the older one on the East side of the road and the other being just opposite on the West side of the road.

While living in Newport, John Woodman held several public offices. From 1682-84-86 he was a Deputy Clerk. He became Deputy Clerk of the Assembly on June 28, 1682, "the clerk, John Sanford, being by lameness disenabled". In 1685-86 he held the office of General Treasurer and in 1687 was Overseer of the Poor.

After John and his wife, Hannah, moved to Little Compton, John Woodman became the first Town Clerk of Little Compton and held that office for 17 years until his death (1696-1713).

According to a deed recorded in Taunton, Massachusetts, under Proprietors grants dated June 16, 1703, John Woodman purchased "6 acres of land bordering South on ye Sea, North on Susannah_____ West on Stephen Mumford's land and East on Penelope Cutler's land." Signed by Nathaniel Coddington. (Susannah's last name is unknown because the page on the original deed was torn). This was John Woodman's house and land in Newport willed to his son, Edward Woodman, in 1713.

John Woodman's Will was recorded in Taunton, Mass, Probate Book 3, page 1, made June 14, 1709, proved June 2, 1713. His Executrix was his wife, Hannah.

"To eldest son, Robert, housing where I dwell in Little Compton and land east of highway, he quitting all claim to my house and land at Newport. To son, John, land west of aforesaid highway, salt marsh in Puncatest &c. To son, Edward, half share in Pocasset purchase in Tiverton, and my house and land in Newport. To daughter, Hannah, wife of Nicholas Howland, 30 pounds. To four daughters, Edith, Rebecca, Elizabeth and Sylvia Woodman, 100 pounds each at 8s per oz. To wife, Hannah, for life, house, orchard and garden, and she authorized to sell certain small parcels of land.

Inventory: 1905 pounds, 10s, 2d.

Viz: House, land and barn in Little Compton, 1200 pounds.
Upland and salt marsh in Tiverton - 200 pounds.
Wearing apparel - 8 pounds.
Cash at 8s per oz. - 314 pounds.
2 silver cups and other place 19-3/4 oz. - 7 pounds, l8s,
Gun, two swords, 5 feather beds, silk grass bed.
20 pewter platters, 4 basins, 6 porringers, sundry books, 1 pound, 3 spinning wheels, pair of cards, 2 barrels cider, warming pan, livestock - 121 pounds, 8s.
gold ring - l2s.

On June 16, 1713, Articles of Agreement were signed by Robert, John and Edward Woodman, Nicholas Howland and Hannah, his wife, Thomas Church and Edith, his wife, and Rebecca and Elizabeth, by which they made certain division of estate, conforming as near as could be to their father's wishes in his Will. Robert and John administered upon the estate and were guardians to their sister, Sylvia.

At the time John Woodman arrived in Newport (c1663), Rhode Island was very young, having been founded by Roger Williams in 1644, only about 20 years earlier. In 1640 there was only a population of about 300 people, but this rose to 4,000 by 1680. Little Compton celebrated its tercentennial in 1975. The Duxbury, Mass. grants in Little Compton were made in 1674. (Newport was first settled in 1639).

Internal dissensions and war between England and France and Holland in 1667 was a source of considerable annoyance to the people of Rhode Island. Efficient measures were taken to put the colony in a state of defense. A council of war was organized in each town, ammunition was collected, officers commissioned, cannon mounted and, for the first time in the history of the colonies, cavalry corps were formed on August 10, 1667. The First Troop of Horse was formed and John Woodman of Newport joined and was commissioned a Lieutenant.

There were Indian conflicts (King Philip's War) and a treaty was made in the Spring of 1678.

John Woodman's daughter, Edith, was the second wife of Thomas Church, who was the son of Col. Benjamin Church and Alice Southworth. Thomas Church wrote of his father's expeditions in King Philip's War. In legend, at least, Colonel Church organized the Sogkonnet Indians to join the English in fighting off King Phillip, an Indian who was organizing the tribes in a racial uprising against the newcomers. It wasn't until 1682, long after Colonel Church slew Phillip and brought order to the area, that the Plymouth council decided Little Compton was a separate township. By then, the town was already an economic fact of life and was a stop on the coastal trade route.

WOODMAN - PEARCE HERITAGE

Since we are dealing mainly with the Woodman family in this book, I will not go into the complete lineage of the connection with the Pearce line, but I do think it will be of interest to include a summary and show the connection to the Pearce lines which trace that family back to William the Conqueror, since there are many marriages and connections between the Pearces and Woodmans in Rhode Island during the early years in Little Compton.

A Woodman "cousin" recently discovered a book on the Pearce heritage which traces the family back to William the Conqueror and Alfred the Great. I have heard it said that almost all who are of English ancestry can probably trace their lineage back to William the Conqueror. Since most of the early Little Compton families were of English ancestry and there were many marriages between the Wilbor, Borden, Brownell, Pearce, etc. families, it seems likely that it would be possible to trace these lines back to William the Conqueror also.

The information that I have about William the Conqueror is that he was the son of "Robert the Devil" who had only one son who was illegitimate, born of Arletta, a tanner's daughter. This son was made his heir and was William I., "William the Conqueror", Duke of Normandy. William I. married Matilda, daughter of Count Baldwin V, Duke of Flanders, and she was a direct descendant of both Frankish King Charles II. "The Bold" and King Alfred "the Great" through their daughters.

Now as to the Woodman connection with the Pearces. Sylvester Woodman's father married Mary Pearce, and Sylvestor's wife, Merebah Brownell, can also trace her ancestry back to the Pearces in two different lines.

The name was De Percy in the 1300's, changed to Percy in the 1400's and then to Pearce in the late 1500's. It was Richard Pearce, b. 1590, who married Martha in England and came to America on the ship Lyons from Bristol, England. His brother, Capt. William Pearce was Captain of the ship Lyons. Their son, Richard Pearce, b. 1615, died 1678 and married Susannah Wright May 5, 1642, daughter of John and Mary (Dell) Wright, b. 1620, died 1678. Both Richard and Susannah were born near Waltham Abbey, Essex, England.

Richard and Susannah Pearce had eleven children, three of whom were ancestors of our Pearce connections; namely, Susannah Pearce who married George Brownell in 1673, Mary Pearce who married Thomas Brownell in 1678 and George Pearce who married Alice Hart in 1687. Merebah Brownell, Sylvester's wife, is descended from the daughter, Susannah and also from their daughter, Mary. Sylvester's mother, Mary Pearce, is descended from the son, George Pearce.

   The following is from Reminiscenses of the War of 1812-1815 by Sarah Sowle Wilbour. Reprinted in "Notes on Little Compton" by Benjamin Franklin Wilbour.

   During the War of 1812, one day a sloop succeeded in reaching the mouth of the Seaconnet River. The barges from the Nimrod. a Brig carrying about 20 guns, pursued her, and the captain seeing no chance to escape, beached her on the Almy shore. The alarm was given and young and old hastened to the spot with such arms as they could lay their hands on. When the enemy boarded the vessel, the defenders fired upon them from behind a stone wall, and finally drove them off without harm to any of their numbers. Edward Woodman, then a man advanced in years, stood up in full sight of the enemy, boldly firing from his gun and accompanying each shot with an oath. This bold patriot was enthusiastic in peace as in war. When the news of peace reached the Four Corners, in February 1815, he was at that place, nearly three miles from his home. He at once mounted his horse and galloped down the road and over WindMill Hill, swinging his hat and shouting at the top of his voice, "T'is Peace, T'is Peace." (He was 73 years old at the time.)

The following is also from "Notes on Little Compton". Politics in 1805, by Mr. Benjamin Franklin Wilbour.

"In April 1805 the people met to elect town officers and representatives to the General Assembly, at which there was disagreement. The seceding party went into the meeting house and organized by electing Nathanial Searle Moderator. At this point Edward Woodman opened the door and in a sharp voice hurled scripture in their ears, "My house shall be called a House of Prayer. Ye have made it a den of thieves...."

The following was written by Edmund Woodman, grandson of Sylvester Woodman, with additions by this editor.

Sylvester Woodman was born at Little Compton, R.I. on March 24, 1760, where his parents, William and Mary (Pearce) Woodman had spent their entire lives. Sylvester Woodman was reared in Little Compton (his father died when he was but one year old) and, when young, was apprenticed to learn the trade of cordwainer, but in 1777 (at the age of 17) ran away, enlisted and fought for independence in the Revolutionary War. For over six years he was in the Army, and was at Yorktown when Cornwallis surrendered. He endured the bitter winters at Jockey Hollow (Morristown, N.J.) and Valley Forge, Pa. and fought in several major battles, including the Battle of Springfield, N.J. Fortunately he was never wounded although others around him were.

He returned to Little Compton, where he married Merebah Brownell March l6, 1786, and remained there until 1796, when he decided to go to New York State, where other Little Compton families had preceded them, and with his wife and five children made the journey by boat through Long Island Sound, then up the Hudson River to Albany on a sloop with Captain Gifford. From there he went by team and purchased a tract of timber land (100 acres) in what was then the Town of Paris, Herkimer County, now the Town of Madison, Madison Co., N.Y. Here he erected a log house and cleared a farm, enduring toil and privations - the nearest market being at Albany - and being obliged to raise the necessaries of life off the farm. There is presently an old house existing on this property in which descendants of Sylvester lived until the early 1900's. Six more children were born. Behind the house on Johnny Cake Hill is the Woodman family cemetery, called the Rebecca Cemetery because Sylvester's daughter, Rebecca, born August 28, 1801, died Sept. 27, 1803 at the age of two and was the first member of the family to be buried there. Sylvester, both of his wives and many other members of the family are also buried there and in the 1970's all the gravestones were removed to a new location (by the A.M.A. and with permission of the family) to the rear of a reconstructed church, which is part of a restored village sponsored by the AMA in Madison, New York, located near Lake Moraine and across the road from the Woodman homestead. The old cemetery is now being taken care of by the AMA and is marked by a bronze tablet listing all the names of the persons buried there.

Meribah Woodman died November 24, 1816 at the age of 51, having born eleven children. The mother of a family in those days had very few idle moments. Besides cooking, washing, caring for and tending her family, she had to card, spin and weave the clothing for them. Among those pioneer women, Mrs. Sylvester Woodman proved herself in every sense a worthy helpmate, bearing without murmur the many burdens laid upon her.

Sylvester married Mrs Betsey (Elsworth) Blackburn Sept 6, 1821, and died August 23, 1835 at the age of 75. Both were 61 at the time of their marriage.

From the will of Sylvester Woodman, Hamilton, N. Y. Oct 1835.

The following is copied directly from the original handwritten account by (or for) Sylvester Woodman.

"A short and imperfect account of the travels of Sylvester Woodman, while connected with the armies of the American Revolution to the close of the struggle, for the space of six years and one month.

At the age of seventeen years one month and twenty one days, May 15, 1777, he enlisted into the service of his country under the command of Capt. Talbot in Col. Green's regiment belonging to the Rhode Island line.

The subject of this sketch was five feet ten and one half inches high, possessing a large share of bone and muscle – which together with his firm courage may account for his being selected on so many expeditions requiring strength, fortitude and a just sense of obligations to themselves, to their country and their God.

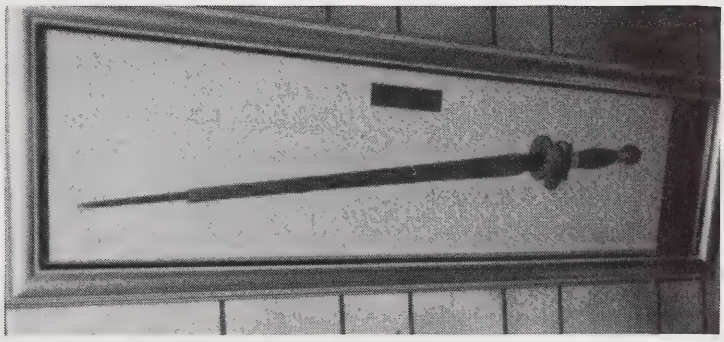
Col. Green's regiment marched to Coventry, R.I. , where they had the smallpox by inoculation – from thence marched through Hartford, Danbury and Conn. to join the regiment stationed at Peekskill, N.Y.

Passing from thence through N.J. arrived at Red Bank Fort and was there attacked by the Hessians under the command of Col. Von Donop, who were repulsed with the loss of their commander and a large number of men together with five hundred stand of arms. From the battle at Red Bank, Mr. Woodman under the command of Col. Olney marched to Valley Forge in Pennsylvania and went into quarters for the winter of 1777 & 1778. June, 1778 marched and overtook the British at Monmouth. He was sent under Gen. Lee to decoy the enemy – he was one of the brigade under Gen. Stark that kept the whole of the enemies force at bay at the point of the bayonet under cover of which the Artillery had time and did make its escape – then retreated one half mile under cover of the main army commanded by Gen. Washington. From thence marched through N.Y. and Conn. to R.I. , went on the Island under Gen. Sullivan in August, 1778 marched from this last place to Warren, R.I. went into quarters for the winter of 1778 & 1779 – from Warren went on Boston neck from thence after the enemy left R.I. marched through Conn. & N.Y. into N. J. built huts and went into quarters for the winter of 1779 & 1780 (Jockey Hollow) from thence sometime in the Spring proceeded to Springfield, N.J. to join the main army. (Battle of Springfield, June 23, 1780).

Gen. Washington here destined the brigade to which the subject of these lines belonged, to decoy the enemy – hoping by a circuitous route with the main army to cut them off from their shipping at Elizabethtown. On a certain morning the detached regiment under the command of Col. Olney was sent into the village of Springfield and formed so as to protect and defend the bridge – here they received the whole British force in solid columns - a severe engagement ensued – the Americans fired ten rounds to a man – the killed and wounded report says was sixteen wagon loads – they then retreated and joined the brigade. (Another report states 13 killed, 62 wounded and 9 missing).

After this action they marched up the North river at or near Dobses ferry where they guarded until his execution the grand spy Andre.

From this place they marched to King's ferry, N.Y. built huts and called the place R.I. village – here they quartered through the winter of 1780 & 1781. In the course of this winter there was one company selected from each regiment throughout the army to be placed under the command of Gen.



Sylvester Woodman's rapier, perhaps used by him during his Revolutionary War years. The guard is silver, but the handle is bone and part of the leather sheath has disappeared.

Demarcus to watch the movements of Cornwallis in Virginia. The subject of these lines with others was selected from the regiment to which he belonged for this service. Capt. Stephen Olney Col. Germotts regiment. They marched Feb, 19, 1781 through Princeton and Trenton, N.J. embarked and sailed down the Delaware river to Wilmington – landed and marched to the head of Elk river in Delaware – again took shipping sailed down the Chesepeake Bay to Annapolis – here they found themselves blockaded by 2 British frigates and therefore Maj. McLane was sent on an express to Gen. Demarcus at Yorktown. The subject of this sketch with six others were selected to guard the express Maj. McLane and his guard, stole by the enemy and went down in a schooner – they lay there ten days – returned by ship as far as narrow two miles below Annapolis then landed and returned to their regiment. In a day or two after they studded a twelve Gun sloop to enable her to carry an eighteen pounder on her bow, which together with other small craft – Capt. Olney's company in front went out to offer battle to the enemy, but they slipped their cables and made off – they then sailed to the head of Elk river – landed and marched across to the Susquehannah thence through Baltimore, Md. to Richmond, Va. – went up the James river four miles, crossed, went down the same, drove the infamous Arnold from James Town, which he had burned, to Petersburgh where he secured himself by destroying the bridge – here they pitched tents – the last pitched by them for three months. Two or three days after they went down under cover of the fog – planted two field pieces and when the fog abated and rendered the town visible, they poured in upon him such a destructive fire that Arnold and his company of Torys soon fled to the woods and mountains. They returned to their tents and lay a few days until Lord Cornwallis arrived from the south and took possession of Virginia. They sent away their baggage and was chased by Cornwallis for two months – which chase ended on the Allegany mountains where was Braddock's defeat.

Cornwallis despairing of overtaking woodsmen, counter-marched towards Yorktown – he was followed in turn as far as Jamestown, there the mountaineers remained a few days until joined by the main army under Gen. Washington.

They marched within three miles of Yorktown pitched tents until night then marched within 1/2 mile and begun and continued to entrench and storm until the surrender of Cornwallis 19 Oct. 1781.

The selected companies then joined their respective regiments. The subject of these lines under Col. Olney took shipping, sailed up the Chesepeake to the head of Elk, landed and marched over to Wilmington on the Delaware they then took shipping and landed in Philadelphia and there quartered for the winter of 1781 and 1782 and guarded 1500 prisoners until exchanged May 1782 Marched to West Point, N.Y. through N.J. here they lay through the summer of 1782 then marched through Albany to Saratoga where the army went into quarters for the winter of '82 and '83 – from here Mr. Woodman with eighteen others, 3 officers and 15 privates, went to Bennington, Vt. obtained permission of the Governor to go through the State in search of deserters – they crossed the Green Mountains was at No. 4 on the Connecticut river on the first of Jan 1783, caught 4 deserters and returned to Saratoga Feb 4, 1783.

This subject of these lines was one of 200 men selected from the regiment to which he belonged placed under Capt. Holden ordered to join Col. Willets regiment at Fort Herkimer – they pressed 120 sleighs along the Mohawk. On the 8 day of Feb 1783 they left Fort Herkimer went to fort Stanwix from thence through the woods to Oneida Lake crossed the Lake left the sleighs under guard and marched through the woods 50 miles the snow being 2-1/2 feet deep at or near Oswego. They had a treacherous pilot and returned without attacking the Fort to Saratoga. They lay at Saratoga until June 15, 1783 then they were discharged – having suffered intensely from heat and cold, from nakedness and hunger.

Madison, N.Y. and also Monroe Co., N.Y. between 1832 and 1844. Borden was a carpenter and is buried in family cemetery on East Hill (on the east side of Lake Moraine, Madison, N.Y.). When Borden died in 1852, his widow, Permelia, moved in with her sister's family, Job and Eliza Andrus, with the 5 youngest children.

It is believed by some of Borden Woodman's descendants that Borden had eleven children by each of his two wives. I have been able to identify all of the eleven children by his second wife, but can only account for nine by his first wife from the 1820 and 1830 census records, which do not give the names of the children. It is quite probable that several of the children died as infants, and their existence was never recorded in the census records. It is interesting to mention that Borden's first wife was married at the age of 17 years and died at the age of 35. She is probably buried in the abandoned family cemetery on East Hill, Madison, N.Y., where Borden is also said to be buried, and also the infants who died. This small family cemetery has been vandalized, the gravestones stolen and, because it is probably impossible to locate because of overgrowth and neglect over the years, no record exists of the persons who were buried there. This family cemetery was located on East Hill behind the Pearl Sigsbee farmhouse on the East side of Lake Moraine, Madison. This information was told to me by Howard M. Woodman, who lived in the Charles Woodman home on the East Lake Road.

COPY OF LETTER FROM PEARCE WOODMAN TO HIS BROTHER, BROWNEL WOODMAN,

Dated Dec. 21, 1846

Dear Brother I take this opportunity to answer your letter of 23rd Nov. lt come to hand the 3 Dec. we are getting better all but William & Betsey. (Pearce's children). they have the Ague yet by turns they have it a few Days & then are clear of it for 2 weks & then have another pull at it again I am afraid it will hang around them all winter in that way. the rest usually well at presant & hope these few lines will find you all in good health, there has been more sickness in this part of the country last fall & this than there has been since I came into this country which is 9 years last August the 7th day that is landed at Galesburg the sickness is all most ended for there is but a few sick now Henry has had a hard time this fall he had the ague & he thought that it was better to let is run & ware it out without takeing any thing to break it he let it run so long that it was like to run him out & when he got it broke it fell in one of his legs he was afraid that he was a going to have a fever sore but the Doctor said it was the Dropsey in the leg & he put on a blister & after that he had it lansed it discharged he said about 3 pints about a quart at first of as "thick corrupted matter as he ever saw come from a bile & then about a pint of blodey watering stuff & a few days after that he had to have it lanced again. now he is able to get about some now the rest in tolerable good health but Lusannah she has the Ague some yet, Lyman & family well now they have had the ague this fall David & wife well William & Eunace well Benjamin I understand has had the scarlet fever Betsy & the rest well last news Thomas family well last news I expect you hear from Galesburg as often as I do my eyes are a great trouble to me yet & I don't know but they always will as long as I live for I can't go out doors in the wind without my eyes are full of water. So my eyes grow up every night so that I have to dig them open every morning before I can see to get up, the boys are cleaning up wheat today to carry of to market so as to get some salt & other necessary things we don't got any thing but we are obliged to have they are agoing to a new place we have never been to yet they hear that they can get salt cheaper there than anywhere they have been used to go it is about a west coarse from here on the mississippi river it is called Keithsburg as for pork it hante worth raising the pork byers don't offer but only from 1-1/2 to 2$ per 100 lbs. wheat about 90 cts, corn & oats I hear no price for every thing that we want to buy is up to the top notch & it will be so till the farmers open there eyes & get the rule I hope there will be a day if I live that I shant be obliged to sell everything that I raise for nothing & less as long as the farmer will let the merchants shave them out of there earnings they will do it. I hante done any thing towards stone for a seller wall yet but I must soon for I dont know as we shall have any school this winter I hear no moove for it yet for this District wont hire an aboulitionist to teach the school I dont think that polyticks had ought to be taught in school any how we had a man last summer for they wont hire a woman in this District & that would not let his aboulition alone in school & they wont hire him again so I expect we shall be without a school this winter I hante gathered more than one half of my corn yet we have had 2 or 3 flories of snow but none to make sleding yet we have had a vary dry season & water is very low yet we have not had any rains this fall to rais the streams yet, I have heared that Isaac is at Aurora about 90 miles from Chicago on fix river but hante had any letter from that quarter nor hante wrote any to him I heard he said that he should not come here till Spring a man by the name of Gilbert saw him Mr. Gilbert lives to Galesburg he saw Isaac when he was going to Chicago, if he is at Aurora he is as near Chicago as Peru, you may tell Borden that a man to get a liveing in this country by working at the carpenters trade will find it hard, for clothing is Dearer here then where he is but provisions is cheaper here than there the inhabitants hante got to building enought yet for lumber is higher here & most all hard wood at that any kind of lumber is 18. per 100 ft. & green lumber at that & when it is seasoned it will not hold out, but if a man wants to get a liveing by farming he can do it here the easyist, but mills are scarce here & we have to go a good ways to mill so that the milling of the grain is as mutch as the grain is worth, I have wrote about nonsence enough for one time you may show this to any body you are a mind to. I should like to have a letter from Borden & if he wants to ask any questions about this country I will answer them as near as I can. Roxa is weakening(?) so you will hear nothing from her our love to you all

(Signed) Pearce Woodman

Editor' s Note: I have typed the above letter from a copy of the hand-written letter, just as it was written; that is, no punctuation, no para-graphing, misspellings, etc. However, the content is most descriptive of a farmer's life in Knox County, Illinois in 1846 and very helpful from a genealogist's viewpoint in that he mentions members of the family and their health problems. He mentions that his daughter, Betsey, had the Ague and apparently she died two years later at age 13.

From Vital Records of Hamilton, N.Y. 1818-1887
Obituary of Roxa (Blair) Woodman

"Deaths - In Rio (Illinois) at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. Jesse Melton, on June 9, 1876, Mrs. Roxa S. Woodman, age 77 years, 2 mos. 13 days. She was one of the earliest settlers of the county (Knox), having come with her husband from Chenango County, New York in the Galesburg colony nearly 40 years ago (i.e. c1838). A few years after they moved into this region, her husband (Pearce Woodman) built the first schoolhouse within the Township of Rio. She was left a widow more than 22 years ago, since which time she had made her home with her children, of whom 4 are deceased and 8 are still living; viz, 5 sons and 3 daughters. While in Galesburg she was connected with the First Church and at her death was probably the oldest person in the Township."

Brownel Woodman's home, located about a half mile north of the Woodman Homestead on the West side of Lake Moraine, Madison, N.Y. (also on Lot #77). Later this was the home of George Blackburn Woodman, son of Brownel. Photo taken July, 1987.

Brownel Woodman was a carpenter and followed that trade a few years, when he turned his attention to farming. He purchased a tract of land from his father, Sylvester, where he built a house and lived for some years, but, succeeding his father in the ownership of the homestead, he resided there until his death on April 21, 1861.

He was one of the first to declare political action in the anti-slavery movement as the only effective lever in the overthrow of that institution and his voice was often heard in private and public debate.

His wife, Roxana, and 14 year old daughter, Camelia, went with him, as well as his son, Damon, 25, and his wife, Emma Jane Besse (Brown).

Isaac Woodman is listed on the 1830 census of Madison Co. with his wife, one male and one female child, both under 5. He was 28 and Roxana was 25 years old. Both joined the Baptist Church, Hamilton, N.Y. April 17, 1831. Resided Madison, Lot 83, next to the Woodman Homestead lot. Moved to Smyrna and Isaac was a constituent member of Plymouth Baptist Church at Plymouth Village, Chenango Co., N.Y., organized Sept 25, 1841. Was chosen as a Trustee Nov 23, 1841.

Isaac and his family were among the earliest pioneers of Rice County, Minnesota, arriving when the population of the county, according to an old newspaper clipping, was 5,000 Indians and only 17 white people. Camelia Woodman was the only young white girl.

That first winter they lived in a log cabin, earth-floored and with only one small window, but in the Spring of 1855 they moved to a claim they had received from the government, two miles south of Faribault, and here in Walcott Township, Isaac Woodman started a lime kiln. He was later assisted by Ransom McCargar who had married his daughter, Camelia, in 1856.

Grave of Isaac Woodman (1802-1861), Faribault, MN, who migrated to Faribault in 1854 in a covered wagon. Clayton Holt, (a descendant of Isaac Woodman) and Wesley G. Woodman standing behind the gravestone, August, 1988.

He was also a farmer and in 1857 Isaac was elected Probate Judge and he served in this capacity until his death in 1861, in his 59th year. He was known as Judge Woodman and was active in establishing the local government and schools. He established the Woodman Cemetery on a corner of his farm and his was the first grave there. In this small cemetery south of Faribault there is a definite impression of dignity in the gravestones of Isaac and Roxana Woodman, placed prominently just beyond the decorative iron gates, which, unfortunately, have been replaced by new wire fence gates.

The following is a portrait and biographical record of Franklyn Borden Woodman from page 528 of a history of Ottawa Co., Michigan, written about 1895.

"Franklyn Borden Woodman. Those to whom has been granted the privilege of residing in Ottawa County for the past forty or fifty years have witnessed an interrupted series of improvements. Where once rose the smoke of the camp fire now ascends the busy hum of industry from a thriving city. Where once the hunter roamed in search of game, the farmer now tills the soil. Chaos has been reduced to system, and poverty has been replaced by prosperity. As one of the number whose efforts have contributed to secure these results, we present the name of Franklyn Borden Woodman a resident farmer of Tallmadge Township.

"The parents of our subject were Borden and Elizabeth (Brown) Woodman, the latter being the daughter of Joseph and Elizabeth (Cook) Brown. He was the sixth in a family of eleven children, and was born in Madison, N.Y. on Oct. 11, 1825. At the age of six years he was orphaned by the death of his mother and was then taken into the home of his maternal grandfather, Joseph Brown, by whom he was raised to manhood. In his youth he attended the common schools of the neighborhood, but as they were of inferior order, his education was rather meagre.

"At the age of nineteen years our subject commenced to work as a day laborer, and was thus engaged until the fall of 1849, when, desirous of bettering his financial condition, he came to Michigan. Here he settled in the woods of Tallmadge Township, and purchasing property, began to clear the land and cultivate the soil of his present farm. He is now the owner of about one hundred acres, all of which are under excellent cultivation, devoted principally to the raising of cereals. In the rotation of crops and fertilization of the soil, he exercises good judgment, as a consequence of whlch his land is fertile and he is enabled each year to gather large harvests of golden grain."

"The lady who in 1845 became the wife of our subject was Miss Emily Jane Hammond, daughter of William Hammond, a resident of Herkimer County, N.Y. Mr. and Mrs. Woodman are the parents of five children, but only two are now living. They are Hannah S., who is the wife of Samuel Roach of Canada, and resides in Ottawa County, Mich., and Charles Franklin Woodman, who married Miss Ann Elizabeth Kitsmiller and makes his home with his father, assisting in the cultivation of the farm. In his political belief, Mr. Woodman is a staunch Republican, and since casting his first ballot has always upheld the principles for which the party stands. He has officiated as Constable, and has also occupied other positions, where he has rendered efficient and satisfactory service on behalf of his fellow citizens."

OBITUARY OF THOMAS SIMMONS WOODMAN

"Thomas Simmons Woodman was born near Hamilton, Madison County, New York March 2, 1823. Came overland with his father's family to Galesburg, Ill., in the year 1837. Passed one winter at Log Colony, where colonists who settled Galesburg were then located. Galesburg then a place with but one family, now a population of 2,000. Afterward he settled in the northern part of the county, where on March 15, 1850 he was united in marriage to Mary C. Adams. From this union were born four children, three boys and one girl, the latter dying in infancy.

The winter of 1864 the whole family at one time were sick with typhoid fever, the wife dying.

July 4, 1866 he was united in marriage to Sarah A. Swegle, who still survives him. From this union were born four children, two boys and two girls.

March, 1892 he removed from Illinois and came to the home near Dexter (Iowa) where he has since resided.

Of the seven children living, five were present at his death. The absent ones being Frank Albert of Santa Cruz, California, who visited his father in June last, and Alvin Littleton, of Kearney, Neb., who spent one week with his father in his last illness.

August 28, while caring for his stock, he was prostrated with the heat, from which he never recovered, remaining unconscious most of the time till Saturday, Sept. 23, 1899 when he departed this life, aged 76 years, 6 mos. and 21 days.

The funeral services were held at the residence Monday at 10:30 conducted by Rev. C. L. Baxter, and the interment made in the Dexter cemetery. Sympathy is extended the bereaved ones in their affliction."

The above was copied from the obituary in the Dexter, Iowa newspaper dated Sept. 24, 1899, copy of which was furnished by a descendant of Thomas S. Woodman. (Ray Albert Snyder of Hastings, Nebraska).

George B. Woodman was born on the Woodman homestead farm which his grandfather, Sylvester, first settled when he migrated from Rhode Island to Madison, N.Y. in 1796.

George B. Woodman was educated at the common schools of his district, afterward at Hamilton Academy, and at eighteen commenced teaching in his home section, receiving $14.00 per month and boarding around. Concluding that in the growing West there were better chances for a young man, in 1849 he went to Michigan, and taught for six months at Saginaw; but the longing for his old home being too strong, he returned to his native state and taught three terms in the village of Hamilton, Madison County, continuing to teach for a part of each year until 1859, when he directed his whole attention to the management of his farm. After his mother's death, he bought the interest of the other heirs in the old homestead, and engaged in general farming, hopgrowing and dairying. He erected good and substantial buildings and otherwise greatly improved the place.

George B. Woodman was a member of the Free-Soil party and belonged to the Republican organization since its formation, having filled several offices of trust, such as District Clerk for a number of years and also Assessor. Being a man of considerable learning, he took great interest in educational matters, in connection with his other affairs. His position as one of the representatives of the pioneer families made him an interesting and competent authority on matters pertaining to the history of his county; and there were very few better posted or more entertaining in narrating those events than Mr. Woodman.

The above was taken from an account given me by a descendent.

Emma Jane Brown was born Emma Jane Besse, and her mother died at her birth. Friends of the Besse's, James R. and Roxana Brown, had just lost a girl, so they took Emma Jane into their home and raised her as their own. Later, Mr. Besse, who had three older children, moved to Illinois. When Emma Jane was about 21, Mr. Besse returned to New York and persuaded her to go back to Illinois with him. Damon Woodman, who had previously moved to Illinois with his family, met her there and they were married in Dover, Bureau Co., IL Dec. 14, 1853. After their marriage they went West in a covered wagon to Faribault, Rice Co., Minn,, where his father also migrated to in 1854.

Damon Richmond Woodman (1829-1890) and his wife, Emma Jane (Besse) (Brown) Woodman (1831-1905). Photo taken when they left Faribault, MN to live in Pipestone, MN.

There were only a few white people, almost entirely Indian neighbors, who were terrifying but friendly. They experienced the fear and suspense of the New Ulm massacre, as it was reported that the Indians were headed towards Faribault, although they never got there. Emma was always a little afraid of the Indians, but she didn't dare show it to them.

One day Emma Jane was cooking dinner in their one big kettle over the fire in the fireplace. Some Indians walked in and took the kettle of food. They took it up the hill, sat and ate it all. Damon and Emma watched them and hoped they would not take the kettle when they left. They were very lucky, the Indians ate the food, but left the kettle.

Damon was baptized May 2, 1858 and joined the Baptist Church at Faribault, Minn.

The hundreds of people who, during the past sixty years, have known the pleasure of being supplied with maple products from the Dorr Brown farm at Otselic Center, Chenango County, NY, will learn of the passing of the sugar bush on that farm with a feeling of regret. The maples in this sugar orchard, where nearly a thousand buckets were hung, have begun to feel the swinging blows of the woodman's axe, for they have been sold to Lee Cossitt, who is hauling them to his mill at Georgetown, where they will be turned into lumber.

It was recently my pleasure to interview Mr. Brown and to go over with him some of the activities, history and changes of the farm and immediate community during his long and busy life and to learn something of the history of the sugar making business as carried on there. Many are the changes which have been witnessed by Mr. Brown, whose father, Morris Brown, purchased the farm 76 years ago. The following year Dorr Brown was born there and the homestead, in which he takes just pride, has always been his home. The original 100 acre farm has been added to by the purchase of an adjoining farm and on this, future generations may carry on the sugar making business, even though the original grove is being taken. On this new part of the farm is a sugar bush nearly ready to produce and improving every year.

This past year was the first in sixty years that Dorr Brown has not assisted in making maple products. It started when the old fashioned potash kettle was used, later the cauldron kettle and then the stone arch and sheet iron pans. The first evaporator in this section was used on this farm. It was known as the "Eureka" and although it was a great improvement over the kettles and pan, was far behind the modern evaporator of today. One end of the hop house on the Brown farm was used to house the sap-boiling outfits and one year on the first day of May the building took fire and burned down. With 20 acres of hops to dry in the fall, the work of cutting logs, turning them into lumber and putting up a new hop house, plus the regular farm work was accomplished before fall drying time.

Mr. Brown states that in the early days no syrup was marketed, all the product being put up in two pound cakes of sugar and marketed, usually to one firm. Warner and Whaley of South Otselic were the purchasers for many years. Later came the marketing of maple syrup and then the maple cream for which the Brown farm was noted for some years. This has been handled in late years by the Whitney - (now Record) - store in Sherburne.

Having been in constant touch with activities and programs of the immediate farm vicinity all his life, Mr. Brown spoke most interestingly, not only of the maple sugar industry, but of the inception, growth and decay of many activities of the "center", many of which this generation has not heard. One of these was the building of the Auburn branch of the Ontario and Western Railroad. This road ran across the Brown farm, where a long wooden trestle was built to cross a stream. A longer trestle, also wooden, was nearby and the approaching grades may still be seen. The large piles were driven by using a horse to hoist a heavy weight into the air and it was allowed to drop on the post to drive it into the ground to form the support for the railroad track.

The advent of the railroad brought business, social and religious activities to the "Center". A church was built, flourished and went down, as did a cheese factory, school and store. The building which housed the latter is still standing. It was built by Chauncey Duncan, an uncle of Mr. Brown. Here Mr. Duncan kept one of the old time country stores with the proverbial cracker barrel, whole codfish, old fashioned wood-pegged leather boots and other necessities. A portion of the timbers which made up the railroad station are now doing service as a part of Mr. Brown's dairy barn, while the slate from its roof covers the same building.

Although the record as told by Mr. Brown reveals many changes in the farming, business, social and religious activities, it seems that the "Center" is still a good place to live and carry on farm work. To all appearances these activities bid fair to be carried on by the Brown family for generations to come. Here, now, a fine dairy of cows produce quantities of milk which, instead of being taken in at the "Center" cheese factory, as of yore, now goes by truck some twenty miles to Norwich. A nice flock of white hens produce well for the truckman, who passes the door and takes the eggs to New York City. A fine mink farm flourishes across the road from the pleasant home to supply fur for milady's decorations in some distant city while the "put-put" of the farm tractor mingles with the music of the woodman's axe as he carves down the trees in much the same manner as did the original owner, Sebastian Moore, to build his log house here years ago.

Alvin Littleton Woodman

As remembered by his grandson, Ray Albert Snyder:

"Mary Amelia Woodman Snyder once said she understood her father, Alvin L., taught school. (This has not been verified). When living near Sidney, Nebraska he was instrumental in establishing a school for his children. While living near Sidney, Alvin L. helped hand dig a well for a neighbor. The well was several hundred feet deep and was so crooked that they were unable to see out the top from the bottom.

The family experienced a prairie fire while living on the homestead near Sidney, Neb. Alvin L. plowed a fire break around the buildings,

To get grain threshed in his neighborhood, Alvin L. promoted several company owned threshing machines. A group of farmers would invest in the purchase of a horse powered thresher. The bands on the grain bundles had to be cut by hand and the bundles hand fed into the thresher's cylinder. The straw was hand stacked by part of the crew. Alvin L. always had the job of operating these company threshers. His son, Roy Alvin Woodman, cut bands and fed the thresher when he was a boy. Ray Albert Snyder remembers seeing one of his grandfather's company threshers.

Alvin L. would not tolerate any drunkenness by the men who worked for him. Charles Sylvester Anderson once told of the time he arrived on the job drunk and the lecture Alvin L. gave him. Charles S. said that was the last time he ever got drunk.

The years Alvin L. spent on his homestead North of Sidney, Nebraska were perhaps the low point in his life. Not that the homestead was poor land; in fact it was table land and is excellent Western Nebraska wheat land. Coming from Illinois in 1886, Alvin L. may have attempted to farm the same as in Illinois, which would have contributed to his disasterous experience. The homestead was located on the edge of the Huntsman oil field. In the 1950's oil and gas wells were drilled on three sides of the land. A well was drilled on the Woodman homestead land, but was dry, and no further exploration was made.

The farm Alvin L. purchased Northeast of Lexington, Neb. was a much better investment. Located in the Platte River valley, it was ditch irrigated and in later years by pump irrigation. Because of subsoil moisture, alfalfa grew abundantly. Better crops made it possible for Alvin L. to modernize his home with carbide gas lights, running hot and cold water and a bathroom, which was quite a luxury for farm homes in that era.

Alvin L. bought his first automobile in 1910...a Ford costing $1,000.00, with no top or front doors. The car did have carbide headlights and a rubber squeeze bulb horn.

Alvin L. decided it was time to retire after his youngest son, Edwin Ray Woodman, married. A home was purchased in Lexington, Neb. and Alvin L. and his wife, Amanda Wilhelmina, moved into town. Not having experienced the luxury of idle time, Alvin L. busied himself with his yard garden and working Saturdays in the cream and egg department of the local Grange store. About this time some started calling him "Dad" Woodman. The name stayed with him the rest of his days. He was one of the first to have a radio, with a horn, three tuning dials and numerous wet A & B batteries. In a few years they decided to remodel their home, making the exterior a black and white rock stucco.

The untimely death of Amanda W. from pneumonia gave Alvin L. more time to spend with his children. He spent a number of winters with his brother, Frank Albert Woodman, in California."

David and Esther (Burgess) Quackenbush, with their infant son, Edmund, went to Nebraska in the spring of 1867 by covered wagon. They made the trip with Esther's parents and most of her brothers and sisters. David homesteaded 160 acres in Grant Township, Gage Co., Nebraska, the farm still belonging to two of his grandchildren and a great-grandson. At one time he was offered an adjoining 160 acres for a team of horses, but quickly replied that he didn't want any more of this Nebraska country..."that it should have never been taken away from the Indians in the first place."

David Quackenbush was a staunch Democrat and loved to attend political meetings and to discuss politics. He was an excellent card player and in his later years played with any partner he could find. Thomas Monroe Quackenbush went to Wisconsin from Cicero, N.Y. as a teenager, with his parents, brothers and sisters. He farmed for some time in Wisconsin and also worked in the "North Woods" of Canada. Monroe went to Nebraska about 1880 where he married Ludentia (Burgess) Russell and settled on a farm in Grant Township in Gage County.

The depression of the early 1890's was hard on Monroe and his family, and finally forced them to move to nearby Beatrice when the mortgage on their farm was foreclosed. Monroe worked there in a variety of odd jobs until his death in 1918. Ludentia (Burgess) Quackenbush survived her husband a number of years and was best remembered by her young grandsons, Lyle and Vern Quackenbush, for the large number of birds that she kept and raised, as they were usually the ones saddled with the task of cleaning the cages.

Ludentia had been previously married to William Russell, by whom she had one daughter, Birdie, later Mrs. LeRoy Hawkins. Ludentia had come to Nebraska at the age of 12 with her parents and brothers and sisters. Her older brothers, Almond and William J. Burgess had traveled through Nebraska after being discharged from the Union Army following the conclusion of the Civil War. Having selected the general area for the family to settle, they returned to the family homestead in Racine County, Wisconsin, and shortly thereafter, in 1867, the entire family came to Gage County, Neb. They traveled by covered wagon, driving a herd of sheep the entire distance. They crossed the Missouri River by ferry at Brownsville, Neb. Once in Gage County, they staked their homestead, receiving their 160 acre grant from the United States government under the Homestead Act.

"SHERMAN ISAAC ROSCOE was a farmer in Saline County, Neb., however, the 'farm crisis' of the 1880's (droughts, insects, plagues, falling prices and falling land values) took its toll. He traded his farm, sight unseen, for a 'prosperous hotel' in booming Imogene, Iowa. (His wife, MARTHA ANN FULLER, was the hotel cook). The eldest son, WALTER WAITSTILLE, was born in Imogene followlng a move to Shenandoah, Iowa. His occupations included butcher, poultry farmer, house moving, Standard Oil tank wagon driver, service station operator, cigar store proprietor (in partnership with his son, LEE ROSCOE). During the construction of St. Patrick Catholic Church, Imogene, Iowa, SHERMAN ROSCOE's house movers were engaged to move the massive Italian marble altars into the church. He also moved houses in Imogene, and moved the old Dr. Gottsche office from Manti, Iowa to the corner of Maple and Sheridan, in Shenandoah. He retired many times, only to return to a new venture. When times were difficult, during the late 1920's and 1930's, 'Grandma' MARTHA FULLER, baked pies and cakes in the home kitchen. Among her products for which her reputation as a cook par excellence was established were her white cake and her individual pumpkin pies. Her granddaughter, HELEN ROSCOE, reported washing as many as one hundred individual pie tins, since each customer had to return the pie tins for use for the next customer."

"MARTHA FULLER was born in Unadilla Forks, N.Y. and has told her grandchildren that she came to Nebraska by covered wagon at age three. Her family lived near DeWitt, Nebraska. and she reported walking four miles a day to a country school. She related many stories to her grandchildren about life on the plains, and encounters with the Indians, who were the primary residents of the Nebraska territory. Among these were tales of the Indians stopping at the schoolhouse to raid the children's lunch pails. A kindly neighbor, who observed this activity more than once, would then bake cornbread to take to the children to have as a replacement lunch. The FULLER family lived in a sod house, with a loft bedroom with a ladder to the loft, and a ceiling hole. The loft bedroom was her brother Waitstille's. On one occasion, the Indians came to raid the fresh butchered meat. Uncle Wait took the washtub up to the loft and pounded on it with a wooden paddle, creating quite a racket, and scaring off the Indians. MARTHA told of hand carding wool, spinning the yarn and weaving or knitting it into cloth to make her babies' clothes. They used polished thorns from hawthorne trees to use as pins in the baby diapers. One favorite story were the visits of President Ulysses S. Grant, and the impression of a strong tobacco smell while sitting on his lap."

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman I. Roscoe celebrated their sixty-fifth wedding anniversary August 1948 with a reception at the home of their son, Lee Roscoe, in Farragut, Neb. He was 85 and she was 79 years old.

Martha Ellen Houk, dau. of Levi and Jane (Thornton) Houk Aug. 9, 1883 in Pipestone Co., Minn. She was born March 8, 1851 near Logansport, Ind. and at the age of fifteen she and her family travelled in a covered wagon to Good Thunder, Minn. In 1872 she attended Mankato State Normal School. Martha taught a number of terms of school which were only about six weeks long. Often she went from one school to another. Wages varied from twenty to twenty five dollars a month and the teacher "boarded around". In the late 1870's she took a homestead in Troy Twp., Pipestone Co., Minn. (six miles north of Pipestone on present U.S. Highway 75). She lived in a sod shanty, and taught school in district 9 where later her two older children began their schooling.

A year after they were married (Aug. 9, 1883) Albert moved Martha's soddie one mile west and joined it to his. In 1892 Albert and Martha left the farm and moved into the city of Pipestone. Initially Albert was a farmer and teacher, but when they moved into Pipestone, he started a drayline. Later he became a mail carrier in Holland, Minn. and then Postmaster there until his retirement in 1918.

Martha died Feb. 13, 1930 at the age of 79, Albert and Martha are both buried in the Old Woodlawn Cemetery, Pipestone Co., Minn. They both lived through blizzards, drought and all the pioneer hardships. Albert tells of being lost in a storm. He finally let the horses have their own head and they brought him home safely.

Both Albert and Martha Woodman were interested in church and Sunday school, although Albert did not attend until later years. He enjoyed mathematics and was a member of the Odd Fellows Lodge, Martha worked with the Ladies Aid of the Presbyterian Church and was a member of the Rebecca Lodge for nearly thirty years.

SOME MEMORIES OF EARLY DAYS

IN FARIBAULT, MINNESOTA

Mrs. Durintha McCargar Hatfield

My Mother came to Faribault, Minn. with her parents, Judge and Mrs. Isaac Woodman, in the fall of 1854, accompanied by her brother, Damon, and his wife, (Emma Jane Brown). Camelia Woodman, my mother, was 14 years old when she came and was the only white girl here at that time.

There was not a house of any kind to be had, but they finally obtained a log stable, which had no floor and only one small window which had six panes of glass in it. My grandfather scraped the floor down to the clean, hard earth and they moved in, and the five of them lived there until Spring. The Indians were living in tepees in the ravine along the river (Straight) and on the hill where the School for the Blind is now located. They were shy but friendly. She later told of sitting at a table in front of the one window writing a letter, when the room suddenly became dark. When she looked out she saw an Indian face in each of the six panes of glass, all very much interested in what she was doing.

The Indians disposed of their dead by putting them on high scaffolds on the hill near where the Garfield School is now. Later they began to bury them in the ground in the ravine south of Front Street (Division Street) and east of the river.

She told of visiting the Faribault home and of the very fine needlework the Faribault girls all did. (Incidentally my mother did very fine needlework herself). There was little recreation in those days, so much time was spent at needlework.

In the Spring of 1855 the Woodman family moved to a "claim" they had received from the Government. This was located two miles south of the village. Here Isaac Woodman started a lime kiln, where he was later assisted by his son-in-law, Ransom McCargar, who took a claim near there.

The Woodman cemetery in Walcott was platted by Judge Woodman on a corner of the farm and his was the first grave there. At the time of his death in 1861, he had served as Judge of Probate for four years.

I was nearly four years old at the time of the Indian uprising in the western part of Minnesota and around Mankato. This caused much uneasiness in and about Faribault, since no one knew how far the Indians would go on their murderous rampage. Many small incidents made a deep impression on my childish mind, among them the efforts my father and uncle made to find a safe place for their families. The only stone buildings were the Faribault Flour Mill, now owned by the gas company, and the Church of the Immaculate Conception.

Father decided to barricade the door of our home with a huge bolt. Guns were not very plentiful, and I don't remember whether my father had one or not, but I do remember the axes, pitchforks and spades stacked just inside the door, to use if needed.

My uncle lived in a grove and we did not, so it was thought safer to be away from the trees, so both families came to our house. It was the usual one large room and bedroom of those pioneer days, and twelve or thirteen people spent the night there, though not a great deal of sleeping was done I am sure. The Indians were stopped long before they reached Faribault, so life soon went on as usual.

I well remember the first magic lantern show I saw. A sheet was hung on the wall in a neighbor's house and the lantern threw the pictures onto it. The only picture I remember was of a man with his mouth wide open and mice running across the sheet and into his mouth. Seemed wonderful then but how primitive it would seem today.

When I was about six years old a circus caravan came to town. There were no trains into Faribault so the wagons and animals, such as elephants and horses, were driven on the road from town to town. It came along the old River Road from Owatonna, passing our house south of town. My little brother thought he would be safe from the elephant's trunk if he sat on top of the old rail fence with his legs and arms around the rails. Father took us to town to see all there was to see. The animals fascinated me then and always have. There were a few trapeze acts but it was primarily an animal show.

The old stage coach was the only public means of travel. It passed our house every day and how we children used to watch for it to come over the hill, especially on the day we expected my grandmother to return from her visit to her girlhood home in New York.

Two or three years later everyone gathered to see the first Railway train come into town. It came on the new Milwaukee tracks and my parents and I stood near what is now Ninth Ave. and Division Street to watch for it. It was very exciting, but how small the engine and cars were compared to those we see now.

When I was five or six years old my Father brought home our first kerosene lamp. I was asleep when it was lighted and when I wakened I thought the house was on fire. We had used either candles or a lard lamp, made by putting melted lard into a can or other vessel and floating a rag wick in it and lighting the wick. All reading or sewing or knitting done in the evening was done by this kind of a flickering light. My Grandmother Woodman used to want me to read to her from the Bible. I was too young to be able to read much, but I had learned some passages and read them to her. One evening while doing so I got my head too close to the candle and burned the hair off one side of my head.

Before the railroad came in, the farmers took their wheat to Hastings, (Minn.) after snow and good sleighing came in the Fall. Father would leave home long before daylight to take a load of wheat to sell or have ground into flour, returning home the next day long after dark. I don't remember what he got for his wheat, but I do remember he bought a bolt of cotton cloth just after the Civil War, and paid 60 cents a yard for it.

For many years after the close of the Civil War, the Fourth of July celebrations were really patriotic affairs, with parades, speeches and fireworks. In the earlier days there would be a public picnic dinner, then speeches, fireworks in the evening, followed by a public dance. Families from the country would bring the whole family, a big picnic box of lunch and enjoy the whole day, going home tired but happy.

The coming of the railroad and trains opened many avenues for work. There was plenty of timber and railroad ties were needed and cord wood could be shipped as well as used to fire the engines with. Some worked with their teams and some with axes and saws, and though there were many frozen hands and feet, the men were glad to earn some extra money.

There was always a lot of snow all winter and many times I walked to school over the tops of fences, since the crust on the snow was usually hard enough to walk on. Drifts were deep and hard enough so tunnels could be dug in them for play houses.

Buildings in those days were rather simply built. The cattle barns are now palatial in comparison to the early ones. There were posts driven into the ground for corners, poles laid on these, more poles stood on the ground and leaning on the horizontal top poles. Then when the grain was threshed the straw was thrown on to cover all, leaving one side open. Compare the modern farm home with those of pioneer days if you can. Ours was a fair sample, I think. One large room where cooking, eating and all work was done, at least in winter time. One bedroom, where our parents' bed was and under which our trundle bed was put during the day, and pulled out at night. There was a good sized pantry, and the half-story upstairs was one large room. No inside toilets and those outside were very primitive affairs, sometimes without roofs even.

Our first schoolhouse was also very primitive. It was not a large room. I remember a box stove stood in the center of the room, the teacher's table and chair were in one corner and along each side of the room were shelves against the wall for desks, and to hold books, while in front of them were long benches. When reciting we sat with our backs against the edge of the shelf and when study time came whipped our feet over the seat and put our books and arms on those shelves for desks. Some of us could reach the floor with our feet, others could not and I was one who could not do so. By the time I could we had a better school house and better seats.

Threshing was a great event in those days, when instead of tractor engines we see now, the machinery was operated by horse power. A round contraption with four or five arms extending out from it was set at some distance from the separator to which it was attached by an iron rod; then four or five horses were hitched, or rather four or five teams were hitched, to this, one team to each arm, they were driven around and around in a circle until the job of threshing was done. I was a little girl then and felt so sorry for those horses who had to travel in a circle all day. This method was very slow. Father's job would last several days and all those men had to be fed, which was the women's job. I remember my mother spent hours preparing food enough, since in those days there were no prepared foods or nearby stores to hurry to if food ran out. She would bake a barrel full of loaves of bread, and nearly as many doughnuts, and had pumpkin cooked and seasoned for pies. Since there was no way of keeping food cold in the summer, it was not possible to prepare meats ahead.

All soap used in the home had to be made at home, so the yearly soap making task was an important one. After hog killing time in the late fall, all scraps of fat were used for soap. Previously a barrel with a few holes in the bottom was set on a platform and filled with fresh wood ashes, after which water was poured in and soon lye would come through the holes in the barrel. The fat scraps were melted and the liquid fat and lye were then combined and heated and worked together until a soft, thick mass of yellow soap was ready to be strained out and put in containers for use throughout the year for all household tasks.

Since there were no sewing machines, all sewing for the family had to be done by hand. This included making of all underwear, dresses, coats, towels and bedding; in fact, everything the family needed, since no ready made garments were to be found in the stores. All stockings, mittens and all knitwear were done at home as well.

Mail Carrier and was assigned to the Beatrice Rural Route 1. When he began his route, only 3 of the 33 miles were paved. Although he had an automobile, he used a horse and buggy if there was any sign of rain, as the dirt roads quickly became impassable. Over the next 30 years, Del traveled 315,000 miles on his mail rounds, the equivalent of 12 times around the world. He wore out 10 cars through the years, but never had an accident or received a ticket. By the time he retired in 1950, only five miles of dirt road remained on his route. Following John Shunick's death (his father-in-law) Lee took up trucking, moved to California for a few months and then returned to the Midwest to work for Berigan Brothers Livestock Commission, at the Omaha Stockyards. Wife of Lee Roscoe, Farmer, Critically Injured when Gasoline Motor Explodes.

Mrs. Lee Roscoe, farm woman who was severely burned this morning (July 6, 1936) when a gas washing machine motor exploded, died shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon at Hand Hospital. A washing machine engine which she and her husband were doing the regular Monday laundry blew up and the gasoline was sprayed all over her, taking fire and burning off her clothes in spite of desperate efforts her husband made to extinguish the blaze. His arms and hands were burned and his hair and eyebrows burned off so that he is in serious condition, while little hope was given for her.

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe were in the wash-house separated from the residence when the accident happened. He noticed that the engine was not working properly when it stopped. When he started it again the engine exploded and the flames shot past him and enveloped her clothing. Men were at work in the yard, ready to start the big wheat combine in a 250 acre field. They rushed to the aid of the stricken couple and put out the fire and then brought them hurriedly to the hospital. From The Evening Sentinel, Monday, July 6, 1936.

Lee Roscoe Treated for Burns Received When Motor Exploded at Home.

Lee Roscoe, farmer living northwest of town, who was seriously burned Monday when he tried to extinguish the flames which had enveloped his wife's clothing shortly after a gasoline motor exploded while they were doing the regular weekly washing, was brought to town by his son, John, this morning, to receive treatment at the Hand Hospital. He returned home again. Mrs. Roscoe died yesterday afternoon from burns received in the explosion.

It will be some time before Mr. Roscoe will be able to work again because of the severity of the burns on his hands. He was also burned on the face and head, but not so seriously. Work on his farm will continue because he has four daughters who can take care of the home and his hired hands the field work. Mr. Roscoe has better than an 800 acre farm.... From The Evening Sentinel, July 7, 1936.

Vern Quackenbush graduated from Beatrice High School, where he was a star athlete in track and basketball. Following graduation he served in the Nebraska National Guard while learning the sheet metal trade from his Uncle Ira Locke and from the St. Louis Correspondence School. Following his marriage to Grace Bintz in 1936, he and Grace lived in Beatrice and then in Lincoln, Nebraska, where Vern worked for Gunthel Sheet Metal. They lived in Alexandria, Louisiana a short time, while Vern installed furnaces in an Army camp, but with the outbreak of World War II went to Bremerton, Washington where he worked in the Xl7 sheet metal shop repairing battle damaged ships. At the conclusion of the war, Vern returned to Beatrice to open a sheet metal shop with his brother, Lyle. About a year later he and his family moved to Goodland, Kansas where he established his own sheet metal, heating and air-conditioning company, which he operated until his death in 1958.

Grace (Bintz) Quackenbush was raised near Cortland, Nebraska. Her father died when she was two years old and her mother Anna subsequently married Samuel Jay Hartzell. Grace graduated from Cortland High school in 1931 and after working for two years as a maid in Lincoln, entered the Univ. of Nebraska, using money left to her by her grandfather, John Bintz. Grace obtained her teacher's certificate in 1934 and returned to Cortland where she taught in a country school until her marriage to Vern Quackenbush in 1936.

Following Vern's death in 1958, she moved with her two young sons to Lincoln, Nebraska, where she worked successively in a drugstore, a greenhouse and a school kitchen in order to support her children. In 1964 she began work at a local department store, Miller & Paine, where she remained full time for almost 15 years, now working there on a part time basis. In her spare time Grace enjoys gardening, reading, handiwork and bridge.

TESTED ROCKETS, LT. W. E. WOODMAN WINS GOLD STAR

Award of a Gold Star in lieu of a second Distinguished Flying Cross to Lieutenant William Espensen Woodman, USNR, of 40 Burnett Street, for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity as project officer and plane pilot in connection with the development and testing of new weapons has been announced by Third Naval District Headquarters.

Lieutenant Woodman, son of Mrs Katherine Woodman at the Maplewood address, earned the decoration at the U. S. Naval Ordnance Test Station, Inyokern, Calif.

The citation accompanying the award was signed for the President by Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal and reads as follows:

"For conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity while stationed at the United States Naval Ordnance Test Station, Inyokern, California from August 1944, to June 1945. Serving as Project Officer and pilot of the SB2C type aircraft in connection with the development and testing of new weapons, Lieutenant Woodman rendered gallant service throughout an extensive experimental program relative to the launching of aircraft rockets from SB2C aircraft and although aware that one fatal accident had occurred in similar tests, disregarded the great personal danger to continue his own hazardous experiments with exceptional skill and efficiency. By his brilliant airmanship, keen judgment and untiring efforts, Lieutenant Woodman contributed immeasurably to the successful development of a potent new weapon and its release to the fleet. His unwavering devotion to duty was in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States Naval Service."

Lieutenant Woodman was born in Cortland, N.Y., on April 10, 1919.

DAD - Sentiments from our Family

Beside being our Father, Dad had turned into our best friend over the years. During our adolescence, we knocked heads more than once. But lately, all our laughter more than healed any scars each of us had sustained early on in life. He was a person who was always there for us. We could talk to him about anything and if advice or guidance was needed, his seemed to culminate into the best solution. Dad loved his family more than the words he rarely spoke or intimate actions he seldom portrayed. His love was received by us during the many thousands of backgammon games which most often ended in the last game having the doubling cube start at "4", during an aggressive game of golf where his chipping and putting on the 17th and 18th holes drove us out of our minds, on a trap range where he was always the sharp shooter, or at a fishing hole where sleeping was better than not catching anything. It wasn't just these activities, it was anything and everything we did together - or if it wasn't together, it was just being close to him.

Wherever Dad was, he would be the center of attention. At a party, a small gathering or, with a few friends or family members, Dad's presence was known. He loved to dress in his yellow cords, green turtle neck, and green socks. He always wanted to be "Color Coordinated". A man who didn't want to be unnoticed! If he wasn't dressed loud, you couldn't mistake who was in the next room. His love for life pounded in his vociferous expression. People who didn't know him would say, "who is that guy"? We'd answer, "that's our Dad" - and feel proud that he could attract so much attention and generate so much positive energy. It didn't matter if it was guys or gals, whoever was available to converse with about any subject at all, Dad was eager to engage.

Dad was non stop and ever enthusiastic about living his life to the fullest. Every minute of every day was occupied with a thought uttered loudly or activity pressed to its maximum extent. His love for life made winning or losing not the bottom line, although his high percentage of first place finishes will probably go unmatched, it was his incredible yearning for companionship - with one person or with 100 people - that made Dad so special. His one liners in all situations will certainly be remembered with a tear in our eyes and smiles on our faces.

No one will ever be able to replace a person fondly called Buzzard. At the age of 68 he was still soaring high. He was a young man in Santa's physique, a jolly individual. Even though it wasn't his time, Dad went his way - the way he wanted to - in his own bed, dreaming about the next day's golf or his family he loved so much. Even though he didn't get the chance to see Lauren Colleen, I know he would have been elated to have had another Granddaughter! Dad, please know she looks like a Woodman!

We'll all miss you Dad, we'll miss everything about you - wherever you are, we know you'll be the "Life" of the party - and remember, Swing through the Ball!! Goodbye DAD.

She received her degree in elementary education 30 years later, in 1975, from the University of Alaska. Following their marraige, Shirley and Sherb moved to Alaska and lived the first 7 years in Crooked Creek. In 1957 the family moved to Aleknagik, Alaska, where Sherb's family had first settled in 1930. Sherb became Principal of the school while Shirley taught part time and served for a time as acting postmaster. Sherb retired from education in 1976 to become president of Smith Lighterage Company, Inc., the family barging business. He also earned his Master's Degree in Public School Administration. During this period, Shirley and Sherb established a winter home in Walla Walla, Washington, where their children attended college. Four of their children have since taught at the college.
